Characteristic tendencies : These natives can be deeply “spiritual,” though their spirituality is usually very orthodox and they will feel uncomfortable stepping outside of the mainstream. Dependent on others and frequently lacking in confidence, they are mystical and often psychic by nature. Typically honest and fair-minded, they make up in gentleness and kindness what they lack in forcefulness or personal power.

It is important to always consider the unique conditions of the house in question in an individual horoscope, before jumping to any conclusions based on the Ascendant (Lagna). Each individual sentence and statement may easily be counteracted by some other factor in a particular chart. For example, in case of Taurus nativity we said that the person would be talkative based on the fact the Mercury rules the Second House. This statement would be nullified, if Mercury were placed in the Twelfth House, the house of loss. A lot can be said about each Ascendant in general, yet there is virtually nothing that can be said for sure without considering the unique configuration of a particular horoscope.
