Characteristic tendencies : Mercury gives these natives a gift for speaking, as well as an interest in the arts and a predilection for learning. Gemini people are lively, intelligent, imaginative, and thirsty for intellectual stimulation.

Gemini individuals may excel in areas of literature, music, dance, or film, and will typically be very outgoing. Their great sense of humor makes them a welcome presence at social events. Their speech can be quite emotional, and their expressive face tends to give away how they feel. In spite of their apparent soft side, they can show a remarkable courage and enterprising spirit. Their career is likely to be in the realm of education or some branch of holistic knowledge. Initiating new projects is easy for Gemini natives, but taking work to the end and meeting the deadlines can be difficult. They can get bored fast and lose their interest in subjects that fail to challenge or amuse their bright intellect.

Their greatest challenge lies in their attraction to eroticism, gaming, or other sensual pastimes, as the interest in such matters may well reach the status of a “fatal attraction.” When treated unfairly or challenged, Gemini will fight back without mercy.
